
You put what, where???

Posted by Kmcnealy - 2008/01/08 08:13

OK, so what is the grossest thing your kids have ever put up their nose, in their ear, etc??

Come on, I know your kids do it too. One of ours was especially fond of putting things up her nose, including:

granola bar
styrofoam
popcorn papertowel

Re:You put what, where???

Posted by Kelby - 2008/01/09 03:01

Well, my 5-year-old has started pulling things out of her nose... and smearing them on the wall! She has two of what we call her "booger walls." One is next to her bed, and one is right outside her door in the hall. We have paint to create a princess room for her, but we've told her she doesn't get pink walls until she cleans it up herself... EWWW!! My husband said he was gagging trying to clean it up!

Oh, and the other day my twins were playing with playdough. It was like they couldn't resist trying to eat it. They'd play and play, then start jamming it in their mouth. I'd say NO! And they'd stop. Moments later, they were doing it again.

Re:You put what, where???

Posted by elkroll - 2008/01/10 05:07

My oldest child (now 8) was born with a cleft palate and lip. For almost her first whole year, the space between her palate was left unrepaired (which is typical), although her lip had been repaired when she was 4 months old. So one time between the two surgeries, I found an odd surprise coming OUT of her nose at lunch. At first, I thought it was some kind of strangely coagulated snot, kind of long and noodly-like. I tried to pull it out, and what to my wondering eyes did appear but a 3-inch spaghetti noodle passing smoothly out her nose! It had worked its way up through the space in her palate and was on its way out. She stayed calm, kept eating, and looked at me like, "What? This is really no big deal, Mom"

Re:You put what, where???

Posted by JodiG - 2008/01/11 23:48

LOL, Kelby. My niece had a "booger wall" too. She is 15 now and we still tease her about it

Re:You put what, where???

Posted by JodiG - 2008/01/11 23:49

sorry--double post

Re:You put what, where???

Posted by Kmcnealy - 2008/01/12 00:49

OMG - That noodle had to feel wierd!

Re:You put what, where???

Posted by Kmcnealy - 2008/02/13 07:46

I thought we were over this, but my 5yo put a plastic airplane part up her nose over the weekend. She then tried to convince me that her 2yo sister had shoved it up there....

=====